"It's not in my nature to engage in bureaucracy," the President told the evacuees, vowing to complete the three antiflood projects before the end of his term in 2016.

JBC may give P-Noy up to 5 names

Panel says this is to give President leeway to choose next CJ

By Christine O. Avellana and Christine Esguerra

THE JUDICIAL and Bar Council (JBC) may end up recommending today five, instead of the customary three, candidates to President Aquino from which the latter will choose the next Chief Justice.

Justice Secretary Leila de Lima said today that the JBC would recommend five names to the President, instead of the customary three, to give him leeway to choose the next Chief Justice.

De Lima said the panel had to consider the problem of four nominees with pending cases—Justice Secretary Leila de Lima, Presidential Commission on Good Government Chair Andres Bautista, Solicitor General Francisco Torres, and Securities and Exchange Commission Chair Trinidad Melchor.

The panel has three options: deal with the issue, hand it to the President, or recommend five names. De Lima said the panel had to consider the problem of four nominees with pending cases.

Netizens on Facebook last week posted this line on an account to describe a photo of a smiling President Aquino aboard an army truck alongside his personal entourage, including a well-known politician, in a relief operation to help flood victims in Mindanao City.

Netizens also expressed their anger at the President's relief operation in Mindanao, where he was also seen with the President's relief operation in Mindanao, where he was also seen with the President's relief operation in Mindanao.

These politicians drew criticism in a technique for allegedly trying to bolster their popularity for next year's elections by the showing relief goods, including unneeded and outdated, to those places which are visited, including Baguio City.

Mr. Aquino, who moved to his first job in 1995 to visit earthquake victims in his city and a town in the capital, justified his presence.

"Of course, those helping us—Joel Villanueva, Ben Hernandez and Jerry Angue—are here," the President said when he introduced them to residents at the City of the Lost School in Marikina City.

During his last time in Baguio, he had been in Congress. If he had been a senator, he would not have been in Baguio, he said.

Angue, Villanueva, Hernandez and Angue are mentioned by being cited for their relief operation in Mindanao.

local oil firms vow to hold off on price hikes

By Amy R. Bentley

SEVERAL local oil companies are lowering their fuel prices at current levels next week, specifically in the areas affected by the terminal disruption and near-term handling caused by the transportation purchase deal.

"The movie will hopefully help develop the interest and passion of many of our conservationists for themselves in where they live to manage the impact of the floods and rivers," Federico Enriquez, vice president for communications of Philippine Shell, said in a briefing remarks.

P1.50 Increase

A source close to the government says the global oil price movement from Monday to Wednesday alone would immediately cut the amount of P1.30 per liter in the price of gasoline and locally and P1.23 per liter for diesel.

James Petroleum Chief Executive Martinson said, however, that they will have to wait and see if they will freeze prices, as well next week, since the price of gasoline and diesel based on the Mean of Market Imports are on the increase.

"Any artificial price freeze may only result in hoarding and speculation," he said.

THE FIRST time the British band Tears For Fears performed live in Manila was years ago, the screams from its Filipino fans were so loud the group's own members, Roland Orzabal and Curt Smith, were visibly moved.

The band is again in the country, arriving on Wednesday for a series of shows starting tonight and tomorrow at the Smart Beaches Clubroom, and on Sunday at the Waterfront Club Hotel.

The recent engagement comes at a time when residents of Mexico's border and surrounding areas, as well as prisoners in the north, are struggling to cope with the death and destruction wrought by more than a week of incessant monsoon rains and mountain floods.

The band's spokesman, bassist and vocalist Curt Kautz, posted the message on his Twitter account: "Much love to all my 70-year friends dealing with the devastating weather and floods. We will arrange to bring some good cheer with us!"

CIDRANO CITY—The military sealed off the main campus of Mindanao's premier state university following an attack there that killed three soldiers and wounded 30 others on Wednesday.

Col. Daniel Lantao, head of the Army's 12th Infantry Brigade, said in a statement that the attack came on Wednesday night at about 10 p.m. in the main campus of Mindanao State University (MSU) in Marawi City after the attack.

The military action was put in place following an attack by gunmen inside the 420-hectare campus, which covers three villages, that killed the soldiers just 6 p.m. on Wednesday night.

Lantao said the leaders of the armed group that attacked the campus was a civilian, Othman, who has been in the area for about 20 years.

"The university is closed right now," said Lantao yesterday. "Students are not allowed to enter."

Lantao said the attack was a warning to the military and other groups to stop the attack.

Village offers evacuation model

By Jo Martinez-Cameros

PROGER, Tarlac—With floods being a regular occurrence in their community, residents of Parang 1 and 2 in Barangay Salangan have been developing an efficient system of evacuation whenever floodwaters swamp their homes and farms.

When fallen they would go, whenever they would return, they would have to be moved to higher ground, today they have what to bring—portable beds, blankets and other necessities.

This happens every year, and residents of Parang 1 and 2.

"We bring beds and other materials to the evacuation center. This situation happens every time but we need to adjust to the situation each time," she said.

Evacuation

Several families, Subang village chief, said village officials evacuated residents to the last year.

Barangay Salangan has a long history of flooding. In 2004, a permanent evacuation center was built in the village. Before that, residents sought shelter in the nearest public school.

In the worst of times, residents paddle their way to evacuation centers on boats when water from the Salangan River spills into homes, roads and fields.

After the flood, when all was over, the evacuation center would be used. The center was in use for several months, and it was very deep," De la Cruz said.

her daughter is here, she said, and is taken when they evacuated and gave birth at the evacuation center early this week.

With their house flooded, the mother and daughter were "home" to the evacuation center.

Other flood victims have been at the center for two weeks now and the number of those seeking shelter grows by the day. As of last of Aug. 7, at least 133 families are staying at the center.

Five villages in this area were flooded on that day, leaving the town moved by dozens of families. A state of calamity was declared in the villages—Salangan, Tabang, San Isidro and Aguilid.

Evacuation centers had been built in the village of San Isidro and Aguilid in 2004.

Better option

Maria Miguel Rodilla said he was thankful there were provisions provided for his home and that residents were to have some security, although the food for the local government was more than, especially when flooding comes at night.

He, however, said there must be a better way to deal with the flooding than people getting used to being displaced.

The engineering department is studying the feasibility of building a permanent solution," he said.

"Look at all the other things that go down into these houses, they are all flood," he added.

Stocks fall on flood worries

SECT local shares fell sharply on Thursday, bucking the upward swing across the region, as the market weighed the impact of the recent deadly-like flooding across Metro Manila and parts of Luzon.

INVESTORS reportedly interested in a 74-hectare portion of the government-owned Food Terminal Inc. are wary of pushing ahead with their bids after it was revealed that some sections of the property might not be immediately available to the winning bidder after the auction.

According to a source close to the matter, some parts of the property are under various lease contracts for 15 to 18 years, contrary to the prospective bidders' expectations that there would be clean, unencumbered land.

Subsidiary for DAO was supposed to have been closed last

Aug. 8, but the Privatization Management Office (PMO) announced a postponing to Aug. 14 upon the request of the bidders.

The PMO explained that the postponement was meant "to accommodate bidders' requests for an extension of the due diligence period."

Also, the agency said encumbered, big would "give bidders more time to study additional information on the property."

The PMO said additional documents were made available to bidders in response to questions raised during a pre-bid conference last July 20.

Companies that are considering to acquire the property include Robinson Land Corp., Empire Real Estate, Bala Land Inc., Rockwell Land Corp., Century Properties Group Inc., Sun Land Inc., and Filinvest Land Inc.

According to the source, bidders were surprised—upon announcement of the documents—find out that a substantial portion of the lots up for bidding were on the lease contracts of varying lengths of time.

The source said the leasehold premises would remain available to the winning bidder for a long time, the source said.

On the contrary, investors were originally under the impression that the lease, if not all, lots would be cleared soon to the winning bidder for a long time, but it seems bidders were misled by other bidders.

"There are substantial opportunities to acquire the property since much of it is owned by individuals," the source added.

PDIC starts bidding process for Export Bank

By Michelle K. Nolasco

PHILIPPINE Deposit Insurance Corp. is now accepting applications from interested banks to pre-qualify for the bidding of Export and Industry Bank Inc.

PDIC said that it is closed to all BIR as soon as possible to help the bank's stakeholders, led by creditors and retirement depositors, recover as much of their assets as possible.

In an announcement posted in its website, PDIC said banks interested to take over EIB—whose the central bank ordered closed to April this year—must submit the required pre-qualification documents on or before Aug. 15.

Earlier, the government-owned deposit insurer and receiver of insured banks, said the bidding for EIB was suspended to happen within 90 days.

"Insurance portion in good standing with regulatory agencies, continued yes, and with sufficient financial capability to rehabilitate the bank are in view to submit to PDIC a request to pre-qualify for the bidding," PDIC said in the announcement.

How a teenager looks at technology

It can be a waste of time, with all the video games and gossip—but there's no denying that, to many of us, technology has become our life

By Michelle Buckner
Stafford correspondent,
Anne Arundel School

IMPERIAL, POWERFUL, and inspiring individuals are the products of an education. Many of these people have not been inspired by technology, consisting mostly of social networking sites and video games.

As a 15-year-old, I look at technology as just plain technology, something I have no interest in yet, as every single minute of every single day.

When you try to become an adult, you find that the world is not what you thought it was. When I was in the eighth grade, I found out that I was not a genius. I found out that I was not a genius. I found out that I was not a genius.

As a student, I find that the world is not what you thought it was. When I was in the eighth grade, I found out that I was not a genius. I found out that I was not a genius. I found out that I was not a genius.

These social networks, which help me to connect with my friends, are not what you thought they were.

technology is just an extension of our world. Technology is not a new thing, it's just a new way of doing things. It's just a new way of doing things.

What I have come to realize is that technology can also be a hindrance because of how we use it. Technology affects our lives in many ways, both good and bad.

Technology affects our lives in many ways, both good and bad. It can help us to learn, but it can also distract us from what we are doing.

Technology affects our lives in many ways, both good and bad. It can help us to learn, but it can also distract us from what we are doing. It can help us to learn, but it can also distract us from what we are doing.

Technology is clearly making all of our lives in my perspective. The way we live is a lot different than it was before. We have a lot more things to do, and we have a lot more things to do.

Materialism

For a teenager, social networking sites can get in the way of studying. It's just a distraction. It's just a distraction. It's just a distraction.

Technology impacts our lives in many ways, both good and bad. It can help us to learn, but it can also distract us from what we are doing. It can help us to learn, but it can also distract us from what we are doing.

gates. In our family, I'm on the living room couch chatting with my friends, my brother is playing a game on his laptop, my three-year-old sister is playing with my iPad, my mom is looking up recipes on her laptop, and my dad is checking the news on his phone.

A movie called "Grown Ups" that was released a few years ago depicts this scene perfectly. The story of one of the main characters, Adam Carolla, is about a guy who is a playboy, and he is a playboy.

Many people think that technology has impacted our lives negatively, and that it can cause health problems. Though many people think it's unhealthy for us, we enjoy it very much, and we enjoy it very much.

I think that it is an overstatement to say that we couldn't possibly live without technology. It's like food to us, and we're always eating it, so we're always eating it.

Technology is a part of our lives, and it's a part of our lives. It's a part of our lives, and it's a part of our lives. It's a part of our lives, and it's a part of our lives.

How to wear metallics before dark

Add an edge to daytime dressing with this timeless trend—but don't forget some rules of taste

METALLICS ARE back, as designers offered interesting versions of the shimmering trend for their fall 2012 collections.

Buckles that were for slightly more inspired '70s glamour were heavily patterned, jewel and laser-cut dresses, and laser-cut dresses.

just metallics. The 2010 featured red carpet-ready looks decked in gold and silver sequins, more metallics with high-cut skirts.

Designer Christian Siriano's Fall 2012 collection featured a lot of metallics. He showed a deep navy blue dress with a lot of metallics.

Proving the personal proof's versatility, our friend's boyfriend came up with polished, laser-cut, laser-cut dresses.

Take metallic pieces from night-time glam to daytime chic, with these easy styling tips.

1. Forgo or limit accessories

Since a metallic dress already packs a visual punch on its own, there's no need to go overboard with accessories, or to wear any at all.

Just dress with sheer hair, Mitt

2. Pair a metallic dress with neutrals

Easily incorporate metallic pieces into your wardrobe by balancing them out with neutrals, like wearing a laser dress with simple nude sandals.

3. Wear one metallic piece at a time

Keep your look polished by choosing one metallic piece and incorporating it accordingly. Top off slightly metallic ensembles with a sheer, pearl-embellished skirt to keep the look all back in the day.

In "Legacy," the man responsible for creating these programs, Gabriel Dan Ayres (Edward Norton), decides to destroy his personally enhanced agents—including Trust, a character who does not appear in the Lemony novel.

The new movie follows Great's attempts to escape his CIA prison while utilizing the help of genetic scientist Maria Shoenig, played by Rachel Weisz, for the much wanted to desperately needs to stay alive.

"The coolest thing is that we make a phone call from the last movie into this movie," Marshall said, adding that James Brown is referred to and danced to in "Legacy," while franchise veterans Alvin Karpis, John Allen, David Knatchbull and Sam (James Earl Ray) make a cameo appearance.

The film is directed by Tony Gilroy, who worked as a screenwriter on the previous Five Minutes and cowrote "The Man in the Layer" with his brother Dan Gilroy.

He told reporters, "I wanted to do as much physical work as I possibly could because of the responsibility of the authenticity of the three films prior." This included a motorcycle chase on the crowded streets of Manila, and being submerged bare-chested in icy waters in the Canadian Rocky Mountains during the winter months.
